

ABSTRACT

5 The present invention relates to an holographic structure comprising an organic solvent based embossed layer, a metallic layer located onto the embossed layer, and an organic solvent based printing ink layer characterised in that the printing ink layer and the metallic layer are solely separated by a water solvent based primer.